Head Coach Dean Smith

Will the real Dean Smith step forward? There are really two Dean Smiths. One is a friendly Midwesterner with an easy-going manner. The other is a stern taskmaster who instills discipline into his squad much in the manner of an orchestra conductor.

The pleasing aspect of Coach Smith's approach is that the squadmen react with enthusiasm. They play their role of Tar Heel athletes on and off the court.

One of Carolina's greatest victories last year was an overtime win over Notre Dame. That night, the squadmen sat down in an elegant Chicago cafe for their dinner meal. Several tables away, a handsomely dressed lady took an unusual interest in their movements.

After the final course had been served, she arose and spoke to one of the official party. She said: "It's the finest looking, best mannered group of athletes I've ever seen." The appraisal was as stimulating as the win over the Irish.

This is Dean Smith's third year at the Tar Heel helm. His record, after an exciting 15-6 season last year, reads 23 triumphs, 15 defeats. As head coach for two years after succeeding Frank McGuire, Smith's teams have had a trademark: scrappy and colorful.

Coach Smith was McGuire's assistant at Chapel Hill for three years. When McGuire, whose 1957 club won a National Championship, resigned to join the Philadelphia Warriors of the NBA, Smith was immediately selected to step up. The year was 1961.

A 32-year-old native of Emporia, Kansas, Dean was on the 1952 Kansas club that became National Champions and the 1953 team that lost in the national finals. As an assistant coach at Kansas, Smith was on the Jayhawk bench in 1957 when McGuire's Tar Heels defeated

KU for the National Championship. McGuire met Smith at Kansas City that spring and the latter impressed the former so much that McGuire invited Smith to join him in Chapel Hill in 1958. Dean did so, leaving his assistantship at the Air Force Academy.

At Carolina, Smith has impressed most as a technical strategist. He helped develop the "point zone" defense that combines the virtues of man-to-man and zone into one operation. Then last year he introduced the "shuffle" offense, a constant motion attack that can confuse and befuddle unwary opponents. He learned the basic fundamentals of the "shuffle" from its inventor, Oklahoma Coach Bruce Drake.

Everybody likes Dean's Midwestern flavor and friendly manner, and his players admire the way he takes care of their needs and makes them play better basketball. Every Sunday he's teaching an adult Sunday School class.

Dean and Ann Smith have two daughters and a son and they live in the same neighborhood (Ridgefield Road) in Chapel Hill as the Ken Rosemonds.

Assistant Coach Ken Rosemond

Kenneth Walker Rosemond is Dean Smith's right-hand man and also head freshman coach. In addition, he is chief recruiter and head scout.

A 1958 graduate at Carolina and a native of Hillsboro, N. C., Rosemond was a member of the 1957 National Championship team. He had delayed his college education to serve four years in the Navy.

Rosemond so impressed Frank McGuire with his leadership potential that McGuire appointed him freshman coach for the season 1957-58. Ken then became an assistant coach at the University of South Carolina for a year. But McGuire brought him back to Chapel Hill in 1959 and Rosemond became a full-time staff member as freshman coach and talent recruiter.

When Smith succeeded McGuire, Rosemond moved up as his assistant. This season Don Walsh—former Tar Heel guard and now a second-year law student—will assist Ken with the freshmen.

Rosemond, 33, is married and has a young son.

Assistant Coach Don Walsh

This is the second year Don Walsh has served as an assistant to Ken Rosemond. He offers youth, vitality and an understanding approach to freshmen and their problems.

A three-year letterman, Don was a smart basketball guard and a smart student academically. He was a Dean's List member and now is in his second year at UNC's School of Law.

As a senior during the 1961-62 campaign, Walsh set a field goal accuracy record and was the team's third highest scorer with a 13.4 average.

He will serve as a coach, recruiter and scout for the Tar Heels this season.

UNC's Trainer—One Of The Best

Chief of the bumps, bruises, cuts and abrasions department of the Tar Heels is Head Trainer John Lacey, regarded as one of the best men in the business. Lacey has been at the helm for the total of seven seasons.

Next fall the articulate Lacey will take a brief leave of absence from the UNC sports scene to join the American Olympic teams at Tokyo, where he will serve during the 1964 games.

"Lacey not only is a good trainer," comments Coach Dean Smith "but he serves as our road manager. He makes all arrangements for accommodations on our trips and prepares a most helpful training schedule."

Lacey has been fortunate enough to serve with three National Championship athletic squads—at Maryland for lacrosse and football at Carolina for basketball in 1957.

A native of Wallingford, Conn., Lacey received his first training experience during World War II. He studied at the Eastern School in New York and at the Yale University Department of Health. He is married to the former Barbara Koch of his home town.

BRIEFLY . . . . . the 1963-64 Tar Heels

LETTERMEN LOST (5):

Larry Brown, 5-10, backcourt—Two year starter; superb driver and playmaker; All-ACC choice; averaged 14.2 per game.

Yogi Poteet, 6-1, backcourt—Teamed with Brown for excellent leadership; hit 18 or better on five occasions; averaged 13.4 per game.

Richard Vinroot, 6-7, frontcourt—Reserve; played in four games.

Charlie Burns, 6-2, frontcourt—Reserve; played in seven games.

Peppy Callahan, 6-2, backcourt—Reserve; played in 12 games.

LETTERMEN RETURNING (8):

Billy Cunningham, 6-5½, junior, frontcourt—One of nation's outstanding players; set school rebounding record of 16.1 and averaged 22.7 per game; All-ACC, All-District 3, All-America honorable mention.

Charlie Shaffer, 6-3, senior, backcourt—Good rebounder and fine leader; scored 18 or more in three games; averaged 9.9 per game.

Ray Respess, 6-4, junior, frontcourt—Averaged 6.6; steady and dependable in all phases; starter in many games.

Bryan McSweeney, 6-4½, senior, frontcourt—Averaged 6.8 per game; hit 13 points twice; good under bucket; started number of games.

Billy Galantai, 6-5, junior, frontcourt—Saw duty in 11 games; scored 10 points for year; used in rebounding situations.

Art Katz, 6-6, senior, frontcourt—Played in four games.

Mike Cooke, 6-2, senior, backcourt—Saw action in 20 games, scored 100 points.

REPLACEMENTS: The rising sophs and men with limited experience will figure immensely in Carolina's progress this season. Bob Bennett (6-8½), up from the frosh, appears to be the No. 1 candidate for possible starting duty. Behind him are a number of eager youngsters, but it is likely they will be in the role of substitutes. The backcourt appears to be the most lucrative field for the other sophs to probe.

Carolina Called Best Irish Faced

Last year's edition of the Tar Heels, an exciting one which won 15, lost six, was voted by Notre Dame the best club the Irish faced . . . The triumph over Kentucky at Lexington was a big one for Coach Dean Smith . . . It earned the plaudits of veteran cage pundit Adolph Rupp . . . Both Smith and Rupp attended Kansas University and starred there.

Basketball is a game of agility and desire . . . George Glamack, who made history at North Carolina as an All-America in 1940 and 1941, had both . . . He had to . . . George had such poor eyesight he could hardly see the hoop . . .He perfected a great hook shot, which he tossed with either hand, and delivered the ball with instinct from a particular area of the court . . . He banked his shots . . . Against Clemson in 1941, Glamack went wild, scored 45 points . . . Back in those days of defensive basketball, it was hailed as a man into outer space.

Coach Dean Smith

Four captains of North Carolina cage fortunes belonged to one family—Dave, Jim, Bill and George McCachren of Charlotte . . . When the Blue Book was issued for the 1956-57 season the first paragraph stated: "The Tar Heels will be on the spot all the way because of their pre-season rank, but given their share of the breaks there is promise of big things." How true . . . That was the team, coached by Frank McGuire, which won 32 consecutive games and the NCAA title as National Champions by defeating the University of Kansas.

Lee Shaffer, who made All-America in 1960, is now one of the National Basketball Association's most heralded players . . . Four of the five young men who started for the crack 1956-57 team are living within North Carolina . . . They are Tommy Kearns, Lennie Rosenbluth, Joe Quigg and Pete Brennan . . . Quigg attended dental school at UNC . . . John (Hook) Dillon made All-America in 1946 . . . One of his teammates that season was Horace (Bones) McKinney, the present Wake Forest coach.

Wearing No. 32 for the Tar Heels this season will be sparkling junior Billy Cunningham . . . A coincidence in that Bob Cunningham of the 1957 club wore the same number . . . They aren't related . . . Earl Ruth, All-Southern at UNC in 1937, is athletic director at Catawba College . . . Dr. Tom Scott, who coached at Carolina from 1947-1952, serves as AD at Davidson College.

BILLY CUNNINGHAM 32 FRONT COURT

One of Basketball's finest performers

VITAL STATISTICS:

Ht. 6-5½

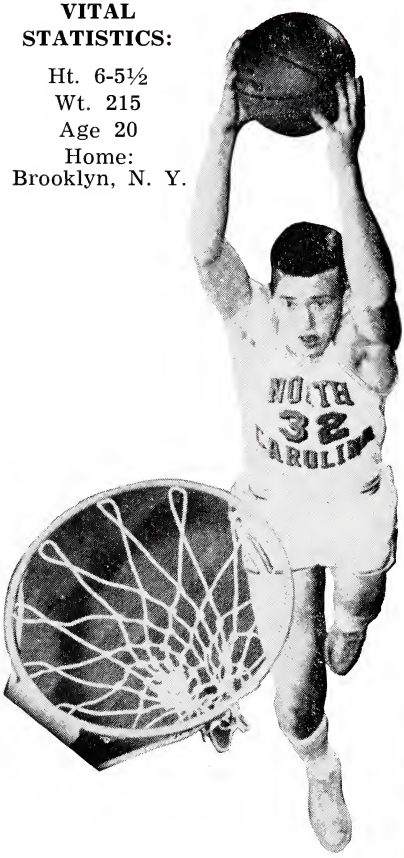
Age 20
Home: Brooklyn, N. Y.



Aerodynamically it is impossible for bumble bees and human beings to fly. The bumble bee doesn't know this, fortunately, and buzzes right along. Neither does Billy Cunningham.

Cunningham, as a junior, is without doubt the most exciting and most proficient basketball player in the history of the University of North Carolina. That's saying a mouthful, since the school long has been a harbor of cage greats.

Billy seemingly soars in Peter Pan fashion to flip his shots toward the basket. Occasionally, he goes up with a foe —then hangs in space, like a helicopter, as the opponent gravitates back to earth.

Someone asked a rival coach to estimate Billy's height. Said he: "I'm not sure in actual size, but he plays about seven feet tall."

Cunningham is 6-5½ and weighs 215 pounds. He is 20 years old but possesses a boyish look that makes him appear younger than most of his teammates.

Billy is a horse on offense, a demon on the backboards and an amazingly apt student of defense. Last year he set a new rebounding record for UNC with a total of 339, an average of 16.1 per game. His scoring averaged 22.7 each time out.

When Cunningham jumps, one gets the impression he has been sprung from a trampoline. This is deceptive, not that he isn't a great jumper.

"Billy's timing is uncanny," points out Coach Smith. "This makes him appear to go higher than most other players. He has a gift of meeting the ball at just the right moment."

Kangaroo Kid

When Billy was 10 years old, fate struck a cruel blow. He broke his left arm and it didn't heal properly. It required surgery and bone fitting. There was a possibility that the arm would be of limited use.

"I sat out sports for a long while and watched other kids," said Billy. "Then I was able to participate in limited fashion. The arm healed and got as strong as ever." It is now a golden arm for the finest New York southpaw since Sandy Koufax.

One of Cunningham's biggest weapons is his coolness under fire. He is a down-to-earth young man without a trace of cockiness. He saves his self-assurance for the tap-off.

One of Billy's finest moves last season was a mid-court basketball as the buzzer sounded against Notre Dame. It tied the game and set up an overtime. The Tar Heels won, 76-68, and Cunningham was the leader with 26 points.

"I guess that Notre Dame afternoon (it was nationally televised) is my biggest thrill in athletics," said Billy. "They had a fine team and it was a good win for us."

Cunningham started off his sophomore year as if he might be touted too highly. Only two baskets against Georgia. Then he moved into high gear.

Some of his finest performances were 32 against Wake Forest, 31 against Duke, 33 against Virginia and Maryland, 29 against Yale, 28 against Indiana and South Carolina (twice).

Among Billy's honors last season were unanimous All-Atlantic Coast and ACC Tournament. He made All-America honorable mention and All-District 3, as chosen by the Basketball Writers of America.

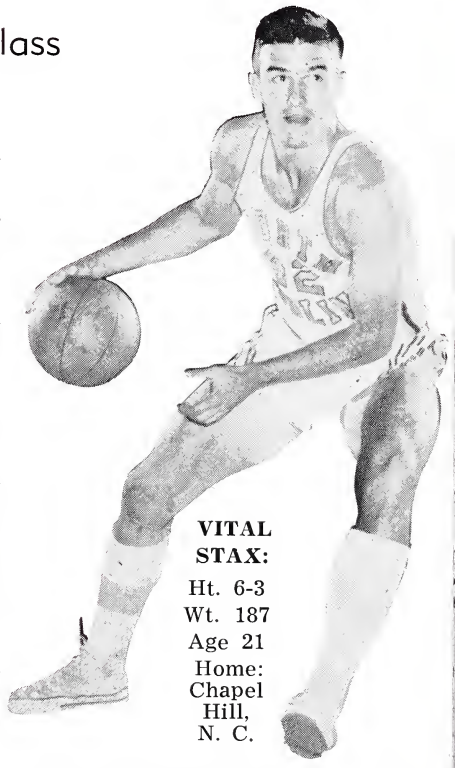
CHARLIE SHAFFER 42 BACKCOURT

A competitor in class and on the court



VITAL STAX:
Ht. 6-3
Wt. 187
Age 21
Home: Chapel Hill, N. C.

Charlie Shaffer is a competitor in sports and in academics.

The handsome co-captain of the Tar Heels is proud of his basketball skill and his know-how on the tennis court. What stands for even higher acclaim in his career is being a nominee for a Rhodes Scholarship.

In addition, Charlie is president of his senior class, a good indication of his campus popularity.

Charlie is from Chapel Hill and has strong ties with the University. His father, Charles M. Shaffer, is Director of Development at UNC.

Young Shaffer might have been a three-sport athlete had not an operation eliminated him as a quarterback in football. He injured his knee as a freshman. Until then, he was looked upon as a fine grid prospect.

During his varsity career, Charlie has concentrated on basketball, tennis and academics. He is Phi Beta Kappa timber and a clutch performer in both sports.

Shaffer's brilliant net play helped the Tar Heels move to a classy 18-1 record in tennis last spring. Among the honors were the Atlantic Coast Conference Championship and national prestige.

During the summer, Charlie went on a tournament safari, but reinjured a leg and had to cancel. The injury hampered his progress as cage drills opened.

"Shaffer is aggressive, willing and most capable," praises Coach Smith. "He has immense qualities of leadership. His well-being will mean much to our success this season. We will probably use him at guard, rather than forward."

Charlie is a Morehead Scholar and attended Woodberry Forest as a prepster. He is considering law as a future.

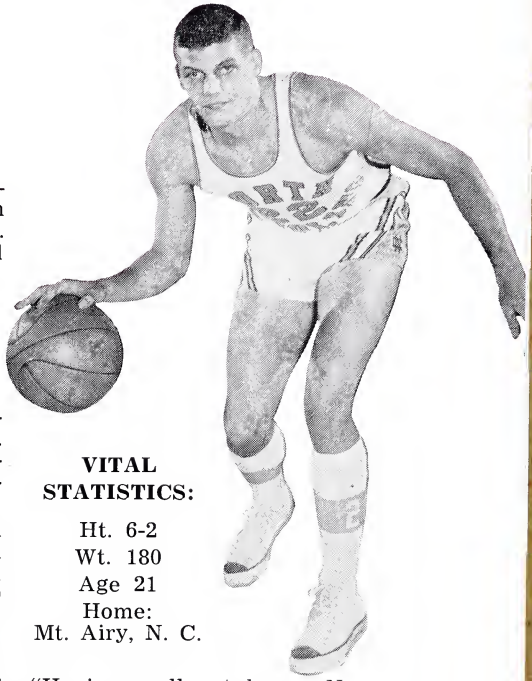
MIKE COOKE 22 BACKCOURT

Mr. Two-Way becomes Mr. One-Way



Mike Cooke has been capable of sparks of brilliance in two previous varsity seasons. This year he is expected to add consistency to his role.

As a co-captain of the Tar Heels with Charlie Shaffer, Mike shoulders the role of leadership and productivity with eagerness.

Cooke's best shot is a one-hander from behind the circle. He hits it with the same accuracy most good players display at the foul line.

Last season, Mike joined the "century club." He clicked for 44 field goals and a dozen free throws for an even 100 points.

"In past years we have utilized Mike at both forward and guard," notes Coach Smith. "He is equally at home. Now we must get a maximum performance from Mike strictly as a backcourter. I'm sure he will deliver."

Cooke is a Quaker from Mt. Airy. He has lettered the past two years and has scored a total of 199 points during his career.

"Mike has made great strides as a defensive player," said Coach Smith. "He has always been aggressive; at times, too aggressive. He is learning he must give ground and anticipate the play.'

Cooke is one of the Tar Heels good-will ambassadors. He wears a smile almost constantly and should make a fine leader.

An ATO, Mike attended Mt. Airy High School, an institution noted for its outstanding prep basketball.

Ray Respess can be likened to the famed mountain climber who, when asked why he must conquer Everest, retorted: "Because it's there." Ray is determined he will succeed as a cager.

Every game is World War II for Respess. Every loose ball is a pot of gold he dives to capture.

"Carolina has never had a harder worker or a more willing athlete than Ray," praises Coach Smith.

Respess is from Pantego. His own name and the name of his hometown are probably misspelled more than any two in creation. Ray has made newspapers as Respass, Repass, Resples and Repress. Pantego is often Pantago, Pandago and Panteago.

Ray works as hard at spelling out his offensive and defensive assignments as most writers do in making sure his name and hometown are correct.

He is a strong rebounder, third behind Billy Cunningham and Charlie Shaffer. His field goal accuracy is superior. He hit 55 of 112 attempts for a 49.1 per cent figure.

Last year's finest game for Ray was against Wake Forest in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament. He shared front-line duty with smooth Bryan McSweeney throughout the year.

With his sophomore year behind him, the 6-4 Respess should become one of Carolina's steady performers.

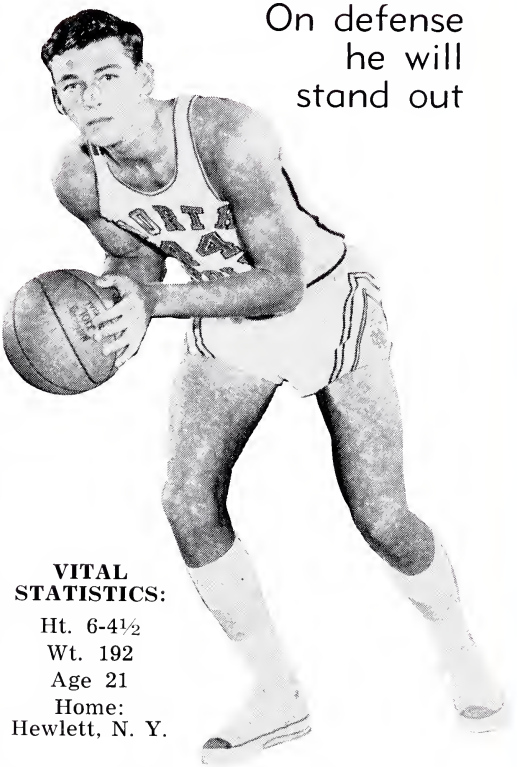
BRYAN McSWEENEY 44 FRONT COURT

On defense he will stand out



VITAL STATISTICS:

Ht. 6-4½

Last year the honor went to Yogi Poteet. This year it appears that Bryan McSweeney will be the recipient. Of what? Of being the best defensive player, that's what.

Coach Smith stresses defense like a mother insists her brood must have clean hands for supper. It's a must! McSweeney, long and tall and with good agility under the boards, has delivered the highest marks.

"Quickness is a must for defensive prowess," states Smith, "and Bryan has that faculty. But foremost there must be a pride in one's work. It isn't easy to be a good defender, and it rates few headlines."

McSweeney, who hails from Hewlett, N. Y., doesn't particularly care for the spotlight. He is a quiet lad with a good sense of humor and a quick answer. His mental sharpness, in fact, outdoes his physical accomplishments.

Last year when Phi Beta Kappa was announced, Bryan was there as a junior. An industrial relations major, he carried a 3.76 academic average into last season. A 4.0 mark is a straight-A average.

McSweeney isn't the best outside shot on the team, but his work close-in, in scrambles or fast breaks, makes him invaluable. As a sophomore, he started a number of games and emerged with a 7.5 average.

Last year, an ankle injury slowed him considerably and he joined the squad almost two months after initial drills had begun. By season's end, he was back in shape. He wound up scoring 109 points, an average of 6.8 per contest.

Bryan's best games in 1963 were against Virginia and South Carolina, when he scored 13 against each. He posted a fancy shooting figure of 53.7 from the field. He played in 16 of 21 games.

"We expect much of Bryan this winter," says his coach. "He is steady and he is capable of hitting 20 points when he's going well."

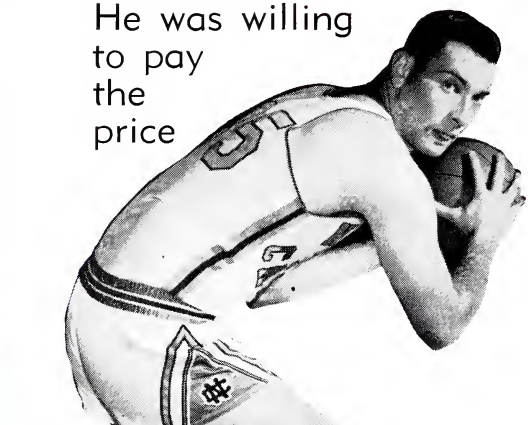
BILLY GALANTAI 35 FRONT COURT

He was willing to pay the price



VITAL STATISTICS:

Ht. 6-5

At North Carolina, Galanti is another word for desire. Billy is a basketball player whose love for the game has been measured, right down to the last ounce.

Just to look at Galanti you'd never suspect. He's big, but under the boards his 6-5, 220-pound frame is all asset. Yet, there was a time when Billy was too chubby to play the Tar Heels' brand of ball.

Not so long ago he scaled an even 265 pounds.

It didn't cramp his style then. As a freshman in 1959 at Wilmington Junior College, he averaged 20 points per game and led the league in scoring. But when Billy later transferred to Carolina, the mandate was concise: reduce.

"At that weight Galanti couldn't run, he couldn't jump, he couldn't move fast enough to play ball in the ACC," Coach Dean Smith said. "I told him he'd have to get down to 225 by our first game last year." He did.

How? "It wasn't so hard," Billy said. "I wanted to. People can do what they really want to do." Galantai's diet was simple. He ate only one meal a day for weeks at a time.

He's proved he wants to play ball. And he has the talent. Coach Smith said Billy is one of the best ball handlers on the team. He is a good rebounder and an excellent shot from the outside.

Carolina's Championship team, the '57 bunch that knocked off 32 consecutive foes en route to a national title, is still paying dividends. Then it brought excitement and tears of happiness to a jubilant campus.

Now, it's still bringing ball players.

Bill Brown was a newcomer to Durham six years ago when the Frank McGuire quintet went on the rampage. They sold him on Carolina.

"I set my mind then on coming to school here—and playing basketball," Bill said. After starring for three years at Durham High School, Brown achieved his ambition.

As a freshman the 6-2 backcourter averaged 12.3 points a game, but more important he hit an amazing 53.6% of his shots from the floor. Last year as a soph, Brown played in eight games.

Basketball is not his only love. Like more than a few other folk, Bill is a golfer. And he plays well, usually in the low 70's. His best was a sizzling 67, including a hole-in-one and a double eagle.

"I wish I had time to play here," Brown said. "I'd like to but I can afford only so much time away from the books." Brown's team in high school won the state crown. Individually he was fifth.

Bill's not alone at Carolina. There are a lot of Browns, two of them brothers. Bob and Mike both graduate this year. Bill is only a junior.

Excels in two B's—Basketball-Baseball

A tall, lanky lad with arms long enough to reach half way to home plate reported for baseball practice last spring and told Coach Walter Rabb he wanted to pitch.

Already a junior, the big fellow had no collegiate experience. But Walt gave him a look anyway, and then a uniform. Thus Art Katz became a two sport man, because that tall thrower who looked as though he ought to be a basketball player—is.

Making the baseball team in his junior year was no small feat. Athletes who wait that late to try out for a sport, and then make it, form an exclusive club.

Of course, the diamond game isn't Art's specialty. He likes a ball with more bounce. In high school at Williston Park, N. Y., the senior frontcourter caused enough stir to receive more than 40 scholarship offers from colleges before North Carolina coaches sold him on Chapel Hill.

Used as a reserve here, Art has played in 15 games during his two seasons on the varsity. "College basketball is nothing like it was in high school," Katz said. "There it was shoot, shoot, shoot. Scoring in important here too but rebounding and defense are absolute musts."

Those are Art's shortcomings. Offensively he has the ticket. His jump shot is one of the most accurate on the team.

Katz plans to continue his dual role in Carolina sports. "Why not," he said. "I used to be a pitcher in high school and I like the game—almost as much as basketball."

The Tar Heels and The Shuffle

Many pre-season polls selected the North Carolina Tar Heels within the Top Ten of America's basketball teams.

"The first reaction is quite pleasing," admits Coach Dean Smith. "However, when one looks at all phases of the prediction, it leads into a program of extra hard work and immense pride to live up to the expectations."

Carolina, in early drills, went about its assignment with diligence. Nothing is ever letter perfect. Charlie Shaffer, the co-captain and Rhodes Scholarship nominee, missed the first six weeks with a leg injury. His presence is vital in preparing for a successful program.

"We lost Larry Brown and Yogi Poteet by graduation," said Coach Smith. "I'm counting on Charlie and Mike Cooke to take their spots, which won't be an easy assignment. Backcourt is the real problem."

The Tar Heels appear to be fortified up front with Billy Cunningham leading the way. Also there will be Bryan McSweeney, Ray Respess, Billy Galantai, Bob Bennett and others with promise.

"We have a deeper bench than last season and I expect our rebounding and defense to improve," predicts the coach. "The important move is to direct our guards to maintain the high standards of the past."

The Tar Heels will utilize the shuffle offense with variations. This means there will be free lancing if the opportunity is ripe. It also means the Carolina squad will switch its attack if a zone is utilized by the opposition. This happens quite often. As for defense, the Tar Heels are prepared to spring a variety of maneuvers from man-to-man to zone selections.

Now for a look into the shuffle offense. Explains Coach Smith: "The system enhances team play. It gives all five men shot opportunities. It revolves all players into various offensive spots. It is not uncommon to maneuver a backcourt operative into the pivot."

The shuffle is the brainchild of Bruce Drake, former Oklahoma coach. He developed it some 15 years ago. The Air Force Academy and Auburn are teams other than Carolina which make most of the strategy.

Inventor Drake labeled his innovation the "shuffle" because the players are always changing sides—or much akin to the shuffling of a deck of cards.

Because of the tempo of motion and the variety of screens. the shuffle provides many opportunities for layups and a more direct approach to the target—or basket. The post man is normally the screen artist.

Coach Smith isn't toying with an offense he doesn't know inside out. He played against the shuffle as a collegian and later, while coaching a service outfit in Germany, began using it. He was serving as an assistant at Air Force when it was instituted at the Academy.

Looking At The Freshmen

North Carolina freshman basketballers are youthful, energetic and endowed with talent. About the only thing lacking is height.

There are no really big men in harness, although Bob Lewis of Washington, D. C., makes his 6-3 often seem like 7-3 in leaping for a rebound.

Coach Ken Rosemond predicts: "We should have a good season. The spirit and attitude are wonderful. We should move the ball well and there are several individuals capable of scoring. I feel the club will be colorful and pleasing to watch."

Three of Coach Rosemond's recruits were involved in scoring more than 50 points in one game as high schoolers. They are Tom Gauntless of Dallas, Pa., Ian Morrison of St. Petersburg, Fla., and the high-flying Lewis.

Gauntlett, a 17-year-old who stands 6-5, averaged 28 points per game last season. In one contest during 1962, he scored 61 of his team's 76 points. An all-around athlete, he was a junior golf champion and a pitcher for his prep diamond squad.

Morrison completed a dazzling athletic career at St. Pete, where he made All-America as a cager and starred in track. He scored 68 points against Largo High in one game and at one point in his career sank 54 of 55 foul shots in competition. He is 17 years old and had a three-year scoring mark of 27.8 per game. Ian, 6-2½, also excells at baseball.

Lewis, who like Morrison was honored on the Ed Sullivan Show as a prep All-America, stands 6-3½ but owns phenomenal jumping ability. He scored 45 points against Georgetown University's frosh in one game last winter. Lewis considered scholarships from 100 colleges before selecting UNC. He averaged 25 per game his senior year.

Billy Freuler of Tarboro looked exceptionally good in early drills. So did Donnie Moe, whose brother, Doug, made All-America attention here several years ago.

TEAM HONORS: UK Invitational Tournament champions.

SERIES RECORD: UNC won 4, Kentucky 3.

LETTERMEN RETURNING: 6-5 c-f Cotton Nash, 6-3 f Ted Deeken, 6-4½ g Charles Ishmael, 5-10 g Randy Embry, 6-2½ g Terry Mobley, 6-3 g Sam Harper, 6-6¼ c John Adams.

REPLACEMENTS: 6-5 g Tommy Kron, 6-3¼ f Larry Conley, 6-2¼ f Mickey Gibson, 6-8 c Larry Lentz.

CAPTAIN: Game Captains.

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: Kentucky, which experienced its "worst" season under Baron Rupp with a 16-9 accounting last year, should be back in the national picture again in 1964 with two-time All-America Cotton Nash due to get help from a pack of promising sophs dubbed the "Katzenjammer Kids." There are problems facing the Man in the Brown Suit but observers say only the lack of a really big man in the starting combo will offset strong scoring punch.

REPLACEMENTS: 6-6 f Harry Heroman, 6-8 c Bill Wilson, 6-4 f-c Doug Piazza.

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: Dick Maile, LSU's leading scorer and rebounder as a sophomore, returns as the Tigers' lonely forward with a heavy burden ahead of him this winter. No other returning letterman scored in double figures last year or proved to be a strong rebounder. Maile must get quick help from upcoming sophomores if LSU is to make any headway against the toughest schedule in the history of Tiger basketball. LSU lost three top hands in All-SEC guard Ellis Cooper, 6-6 forward Howard Keene and 6-7 center Maury Drummond, and replacing them with sophomores will be close to impossible.

It is a squad of depth and considerable skills. At least five of the squadmen hit 20 or more points in at least one game last season.

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: Three regulars from last year's ACC runners-up along with center Ronny Watts, who saw action in all 26 games, give Coach Bones McKinney a sound nucleus around which to build his 1963-64 club. The regulars are forwards Frank Christie and Richard Carmichael and guard Butch Hassell. Richard Herring is another letterman who will battle for a starting job. Bob Leonard, top scorer for the frosh with a 19.9 average, could also be in the starting crew. Watts, an excellent jumper, will be the big man in the lineup at 6-6. McKinney feels club could be as strong as last season.

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: This should be a better Maryland ball club. The frosh unit won 14 of 16 starts last year with all five starters in double figures and Ward and Brayton both over 20. The team averaged almost 94 points per game. Returnee Scott Ferguson figures to be the center and guard Sam McWilliams, another letter winner, also figures. From there it could be anyone. ABOUT OUR UNIVERSITY

The University of North Carolina is located in an area known as 'the Southern part of Heaven," Chapel Hill.

It is unique in that the town and the institution often are known as one. An old grad will remark, "I attended Chapel Hill in 1908." Of course, he means the University.

The ivy around the town of Chapel Hill links to that of the University buildings. It is a sleepy town, yet a resourceful one. It is a town where Negro women sit beneath the shade of a tree a few yards from the door of a bank—selling neat little bouquets of flowers to the passersby.

It is a town which Time magazine once called "one of the 20 most enjoyable places to live in the United States." It is a town without pretense, one in which the fellow wearing the $150 suit may run a small cafe, while his conversational partner, looking worn and tattered, may well be a successful novelist.

The University of North Carolina is the oldest state university in the United States, a member of the Association of American Universities and an institution dedicated to training of students in many facets of cultural, scientific and humanitarian service to mankind.

Its alumni are many—and fame has claimed a good number. In literature, Thomas Wolfe's name stands foremost. He patroled the lovely campus with an unusual mind for detail. The falling of a leaf would inspire him to page after page of prose.

The most noted professor, yet one without tenure, is the original Old Professor of Musical Knowledge, Kay Kyser, who lives in Chapel

About Our University

Hill with his beautiful wife, the former Georgia Carroll. Kay first gained fame as a cheerleader for the Tar Heels.

In athletics, the "Football Hall of Fame" houses the history and deeds of Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice (1946-1949), who led the Tar Heels to three bowls in four years.

The 1957 basketball team, led by a Jewish boy named Lennie Rosenbluth and coached by an Irishman named Frank McGuire, won the NCAA championship. Harvie Ward, a golfer with the looks of a matinee idol, earned an All-America rank as a golfer, then later won the British Amateur championship.

Little Jimmy Beatty, standing 5-6 and weighing 128 pounds, makes a habit of grinding the four-minute mile into the dust. He is America's greatest miler and is a challenge to the world of speed.

The University at Chapel Hill is composed of 14 colleges and schools. The student body numbers approximately 10,000 and there are over 1,000 full-time and part-time faculty members.

Located in the approximate geographic center of the state, the University's campus has been carefully cultivated from the botanical and landscaping points of view and is considered one of the most beautiful in the world. The physical plant of the University embraces about 1,700 acres and more than 100 buildings. A championship golf course (Finley) in on its edge.

The University's standards are high.

In specific areas, UNC is ranked by the Bulletin of Medieval and Renaissance Studies as seventh in the nation, after Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Johns Hopkins and Wisconsin. The University Department of Latin is ranked second, after Harvard.

Other positions: third in Romance Languages, sixth in Renaissance Culture, tenth in history, fifth in English, fifth in history of science, and eleventh in German.

A distinction is the fact that more scholars from other colleges and universities in the South choose the University at Chapel Hill as their first choice to attend—when awards are made by the Southern Fellowship Fund.

This is the University. This is Chapel Hill. This is the way of life—"in the Southern part of Heaven."

THE COVERS

Up front, as is his custom, is Carolina's fabulous Billy Cunningham (No. 32). His scoring effort is against the University of Maryland, which was defeated at Chapel Hill by a score of 82-68. Cunningham, in two efforts against the Terps last season, posted 25 and 33 point performances. Other Tar Heels in action, left to right, are Art Katz, Peppy Callahan and Larry Brown. Fellow in the zebra stripes is Lou Bello.

The back cover of this year's Blue Book is a color photo of the model of Woollen Gym's upcoming addition. The arena will offer the finest viewing of basketball in the South, with individual chair-type seats all angled toward the playing surface. Air-conditioning is another feature of the new structure. The building is now under construction and it is hoped it will be completed for the 1964-65 season. Capacity will be in the neighborhood of 10,000.
